Plagiarism Agreement

1. Carefully review the Plagiarism Agreement and indicate your acceptance of the terms by selecting 'Yes' or 'No'.

* 請仔細閱讀整個英文聲明，確定了解全部意義後，請勾選表示已閱讀完畢並了解其意涵。

What is Plagiarism?

Plagiarism is using someone else's words, ideas, or research as your own without crediting the source.

How to Avoid Plagiarism

- Cite – Citations should be included whenever referencing another individual's work, whether paraphrasing or quoting.
- Citations usually include the author(s) and the date of the publication or similar information.
- Quote citations usually include the author(s) and the page number, or paragraph number in the case of web content.
- A reference page or page of works cited at the end of your essay should include the author(s), date of publication, title, and source.

To cite correctly, follow a commonly used document formatting guide, such as APA, MLA or Chicago.

Not citing properly can lead to an allegation of plagiarism.

- Paraphrase - Read the source text you would like to reference in your essay and put it into your own words, making sure not to copy the work verbatim. If you use text as written in the original, you must use quotation marks. Citations for paraphrased work must be included.
- Quoting - If quoting a source, use the quote exactly as it appears in the original work. It is important to note that most higher education institutions discourage "block quotes" or quotes of 40 words or more. Quoting should be done whenever using someone else's text as written and must be cited to avoid plagiarism allegations.

What is Common Knowledge?

You do not need to cite a source for material considered common knowledge. Note that common knowledge can change depending on your culture and geographic location. If you are ever in doubt, always cite the source.

General common knowledge is factual information that most people know or can easily find in a number of sources. This can include birth and death dates of well-known figures, and generally accepted dates of political, literary, and other historical events.

Field-specific common knowledge is "common" only within a particular field or specialty. It may include facts, theories, or methods that are familiar to readers within that discipline.

Self-citation

When it comes to a researcher's own work, attribution is necessary to avoid self-plagiarism or duplicate plagiarism. Such attribution is called self-citation, an act of academic integrity when expanding on previous research or referring to previously published work.

Plagiarism in any part of your application will result in your disqualification from participating in the Fulbright Visiting Scholar Program.

Plagiarism will be understood to include any of the following:

Presenting wording, statistics or concepts as your own which should be attributed to someone else or to publications (online or offline). This includes, but is not limited to:

- Copying the exact wording of a written source (with or without citation)
- Presenting material with alterations in wording (with or without citation)
- Paraphrasing the content of a source without citation

It is expected that your responses to all questions in the following application will be your own work and writing, with clear citation of secondary sources if describing academic work and the writing of others (including one's own previously published work). Any sources used in the construction of your responses must be clearly cited.
